How many Dixie flags did we see in the pro American Trump crowd? Was this a carefully construed, and intentional, photo op moment? (media.patriots.win)

15 ▼ It's a symbol of rebellion.... that's why it's called the "rebel flag". I can't imagine a better flag to bring to an event where the sentiment is saying "fuck you" to the corrupt federal government. I see nothing wrong with it.

Look at the outside crowd pictures and see if you can find any

3 That was then, this is now. I love that flag but I wouldn't run around with it in there because it gives the media just what they want, a picture to demonize.

2 I mistook you my apologies. What me or you would do with the flag is irrelevant at this point. That rebel flag needs to never be forgotten. Americans are the best at killing Americans and it needs to be avoided at all cost. That flag is a painful reminder that we must never become so divided and decisively authoritarian that We The People can be rallied against their nation.

7 Almost sure of it. Only other explanation is the guy is really into the meaning of it being a rebellion flag.

7 Meh we have those guys as Republicans. No point in pretending otherwise.
We have those guys because we dont think people should be jailed for speech. Even ugly speech.
It is no interest to me to be in lock step alignment on every idea under the sun.

2 The antifa imposter group of ~12 run in all the mass media, was a photo shoot. Where were the crowds? How did they get in without crowds following with them? This group was already in the building and the only ones to get to the floor. Afterwards they lead real supporters into the building but shot Ashli at the locked door before they breached the limit point.

2 It's depressingly funny that they don't even bother to hide creases and the like when they do their psyops.
